Graduate Colloquium – March 24, 3:30pm, TC 101

Dr. Andrea Creech has extensive experience as an academic (psychology and adult education), professional musician, music teacher and researcher. She has returned to Canada to serve as professor and Canada Chair in Music at the University of Laval, Quebec. Previously, she was a Reader in Education and Faculty Director of Research at the Institute of Education, University of London, Associate Lecturer (psychology) for the Open University and Guest Lecturer at the Guildhall School of Music & Drama, London. Creech has held principal positions in orchestras in the UK and Canada and subsequently was founder and director of a Community Music School in the Republic of Ireland. Andrea has been project manager for a number of funded research projects in the areas of music education, behaviour and attendance and disaffection. Her special research interests are ageing, learning and teaching for adults, wellbeing and community arts; and musical development across the lifespan. Andrea has presented her work at international conferences and published widely.
